In 1988, Amy Tan was earning an excellent living writing speeches for business executives. She worked around the clock to meet the demands from her many high-priced clients, but she took no joy in the work, and felt frustrated and unfulfilled. In her 30s, she took up writing fiction. A year later her first book, a collection of interrelated stories called The Joy Luck Club was an international ...

"Marriage was a greater influence on the course of many of the women's lives than choice of job or career, or even family background. Yet few women talked about choosing to get married (although choice may be a misnomer) in the same way they talked about career choices. Relationships are generally believed to belong to the realm of emotion, and 'we fell in love' or 'then I got ...

Bill this is great stuff. The Strategist parallels Claire Grave's Second Tier/Yellow and Wilber's Teal. I think a hugely compelling bit of research would be to track over say a two to five year period, Holosync users, traditional meditators, and those who don't have a practice, and see what tier developmental stage progress looks like over this two to five year period.
